

IDBI FUNDS

NOVEMBER 2013

Dear Friends,

The equity markets appear to have started showing signs of consistency, exuberance and enthusiasm. There are still doubts in the mind and questions at the heart – is the rally solely liquidity driven?, why is the usual enthusiasm missing?, and the clincher, will this rally last?. These are no exceptional questions. These are very much expected, when market starts moving and more so when the movement is preceded by a prolonged period of market somnolence (to put it mildly). The question that is challenging is “why have so many mutual fund schemes” not given positive and healthy returns, despite the impressive market upturn. Implied deep in the question, perhaps, is the lack of confidence in the ability of the industry to deliver.

IDBI Mutual Fund, as a responsible partner, would not speculate on the course of the market. The market movements are determined primarily by “sentiments” and sentiments are determined by “expectations”. The Indian currency has gained semblance of stability, inflows have improved, exports have picked up and the core sector of the economy have grown at a rate of 8% pa. These recent data have transformed the all pervading feeling of defeatism with a feeling of positivity. There is also an expectation that the new government to be sworn in, will initiate reform measures to boost the economy. Even FIIs have been caught in these sentiments, as witnessed by recent inflow of over Rs 13,000 crs in the Indian markets. The large investment by the FIIs in the emerging markets have, perhaps, been possible due to deferment of the widely expected tapering programme by the US FED, which again has helped create a positive sentiment of continuing global liquidity.

We strongly feel that the Quantitative Easing (QE) programme, which was undertaken by the US FED as a short term emergency measure, is unlikely to continue for long. It is, however, important to note that RBI and the Government of India have expressed confidence that India would be able to withstand the ill effect, if any, of “tapering” programme as and when implemented by US FED. We are, therefore, unlikely to witness volatile fluctuation in the Indian currency, as happened in September/ October, even if there is a “taper”. Notwithstanding the recent improvement in growth trends in the core sector, sustained uptrend in the domestic economy is likely to take some time. The economy will, however, benefit from rising exports which have turned around, more due to improvements in the international economy, rather than any noteworthy improvement in the Indian economy as yet. Meanwhile, there would be positive impact of some of the recent measures initiated on the policy/ implementation front. We continue to hold that there is a positive long term growth story in the Indian economy

It would be unwise to conclude that the economy will, from now on, be on a continual growth path. However, immediate issues and difficulties have been to some extent addressed. The feeling of despondency, has been substituted by a feeling of hope and positive expectations. The markets have registered signs of uptrend. It is still not yet a widespread rally – no rally is broadbased when it first starts. As and when the movements sound confident, the market would be more participative and the rally more widespread. We then hope to see valuations of the various mutual fund schemes rise in tandem with the market. Investors may look to build their equity portfolio with the help of professionals through the mutual fund route, so as to gain more opportunities to reap timely benefits of the capital market in these uncertain times.

Warm regards,

Debasish Mallick
M.D. & Chief Executive officer

Equity Market Overview

CNX Nifty gained by whooping 9.8% in the month of October, up from 5735.3 to 6299.15. Indian stocks surged, with investor sentiment boosted by data showing a sharp decline in trade deficit in September 2013 from August 2013, the Reserve Bank of India's (RBI) decision to improve liquidity conditions in the banking system and in line or better earnings announced by most of the companies. Foreign institutional investors (FIIs) were in buying mood all through the month.

Trade deficit in September narrowed for the third straight month to ~USD 6.8 bln compared to USD 11bln in August. Broadly, a few trends visible are 1. Exports are gaining traction aided by improving external demand and weak currency, 2. Oil demand is also slowing amid domestic slowdown, 3. Gold Imports have fallen due to regulatory hurdles 4. Most importantly non oil, non gold imports have been declining very sharply.

While trade deficit number came positive, inflation and Index of Industrial Production (IIP) data were disappointing. IIP in August grew a meager 0.6% yoy, much below the expectations of 1.8%. due to sharp decline in capital goods production after an extraordinary rise in July. Ex Cap goods, IIP growth was stable at 1%, same as previous month. Sept -13. WPI inflation continued to firm up to seven month high of 6.5% yoy. Even the CPI inflation for September rose to 9.8% yoy from 9.5% in August. Food prices for consumers rose by 11.44 % yoy in Sept faster than August's 11.06 % rise. Clearly to control inflation, RBI in its policy meet in Oct raised the repo rate by 25bps to 7.75% in line with the expectations. The RBI also lowered the MSF rate by 25bps, which in addition to the 50bps cut taken earlier in the month, brought it down to 8.75%. The central bank also sought to ease short term liquidity through term repos from 0.25% to 0.5% of NDTL. RBI reduced the GDP estimate to 5% from earlier 5.5%. and raised WPI estimate for March end to 6.5% from 5%.

INR stabilized within 61-62/$ range over Oct. RBI gradually unwound several of its liquidity measures to support the INR. The month saw RBI receiving ~$12bln under the special concessional window for swapping FCNR(B) and overseas foreign currency borrowing.

On the sectoral indices front, most of the indices ended in green except BSE FMCG down 0.3%, The top gainers for the month were Banks (up by 19.4%), Cap goods (up by 18.8%) and Realty (up by 14.8%).

Most of the global indices ended the month on a positive note, except Shanghai & Nikkei. Indian markets gained the highest, followed by Dax up 5.11%, Nasdaq up 3.93%.

Fixed Income Overview

Worse-than-expected employment data in the US pushed up hopes of a prolonged tapering deferral, as global markets cheered the data. Eurozone showed a marginal recovery trend with latest quarterly GDP print coming in at 0.3% YoY v/s -0.3% for the preceding quarter.

RBI's monetary policy on Oct 29 was along expected lines, with a 25 bps hike in repo rate, along with a 25 bps cut in the MSF rate, while increasing the limit under term repo. While hawkishness has been maintained given the persistently high inflation prints, the low 'core' inflation has been acknowledged. RBI has also announced the imminent introduction of retail CPI-linked bonds. While the average cost of RBI-supplied liquidity remains ~8%, the marginal rate will determine the money market curve.

INR remained stable around 61/$, as ~12 billion USD was garnered under the FCNR-B scheme. What remains to be seen is the reaction of markets post-induction of OMC demand of 400 million$/day back into forex markets. Meanwhile, Finance Minister Chidambaram has already cut the official CAD for FY14 to ~60 billion $.

Certificates of Deposits (CDs) 2-month yields fell further from 9.5% to 8.8% as the overnight rate is being normalized to the repo rate. 10Yr G-sec yields were range-bound between 8.50-8.60% levels, with an upward bias.

LAF remained at the newly constrained levels of ~Rs.40,000 crores, while MSF averaged ~Rs.38,000 crores for the month, down from Rs.70,000 crores last month, as RBI refrained from roll-over of CMBs of Rs.52,000 crores. Also, export refinance facility was utilized by banks remained steady ~Rs.40,000 crores.

The cooling of tensions with regard to Syria has kept oil prices steady ~$108-110, and has prevented, till date, the Indian fiscal arithmetic from running amok. Any diesel price hike will help the fiscal math.

The clear change in the policy stance will continue to act as a dampener for long-term yields, while short-term rates will continue to trend downward as the yield curve normalizes over the next 3-6 months. The possible announcement of OMOs may be the only silver lining for long-term yields.
