Debt Market Outlook

As per the latest monetary policy review (June 2017), the Reserve Bank of India has maintained a neutral stance. However RBI has acknowledged that the headline inflation has declined due to base effect, fall in food prices and decline in oil prices. Accordingly the Headline projections have been revised downwards from 4.5-5% range to 3.5-4.5% range for March 2018. However RBI has raised concerns on rising rural wages, consumption demand, imported inflation, impact of 7th pay commission, fiscal risk from loan waivers and rebound in growth after demonetization which may lead to higher inflation.

Going ahead, rate action will be data dependent. Likelihood of easing has improved but the quantum may depend on how data shapes up. Liquidity is in the range of around 3 to 4 trillion which may be sucked out over a period of time in a non-disruptive way. Globally within US with unemployment rate below 5% and non-farm payrolls as per expectations, there are expectations of a rate hike during 2017. Also

The Federal Open Market Committee (FOMC) is on the cusp of Balance sheet reduction. Elections in UK will decide the Brexit process going ahead.

Money Market

Money Market yields in 2016-17 have come down by more than 100 bps buoyed by Rate cuts, accommodative stance of the RBI and surplus liquidity in the system after demonetization. This led to a number of first time issuers to enter CP markets to take advantage of the lower rates. Money Market Funds experienced huge growth in last financial year due to surplus liquidity leading MFs to look at new credits which not only provided them relatively better rates but also diversified the portfolio.

Liquidity surge helped the call rates to trade well below the RBI operating rate which forced the central bank to come out with regular issuance of Cash Management Bills

Sovereign Bond Yields

On the sovereign bond segment, we see the 10-yr range between 7.25% -7.60% during the June-July period. The 10 Year GOI-SDL spread is likely to move between 50-90 bps depending on the issuance levels. Sovereign yields which were hovering around 6.85% in the month of April 2017, declined to 6.51% in the month of June 2017 after the policy announcement.

Corporate Bond market expected to follow sovereign bond market.

Equity Market Outlook

We had highlighted in our previous annual report that the outlook for equity markets is quite sanguine given the market cycle, structural changes being undertaken in the economy and valuation support from a 5-year perspective. Broad index (Sensex) was up ~17% and BSE midcap was up ~33% during the previous fiscal year. We retain our positive view on the market from a medium-term perspective for the reasons stated below (and similar to our stand made earlier).

Our call of healthy returns on a tax-adjusted basis from equity markets is based on a medium term view of Indian economy and our understanding of market cycles. Indian economy experienced one of the best periods of economic growth starting early 2000s—Indian economy grew by ~5X between FY00-12 in nominal terms. This phenomenal growth of the past decade led to cyclical pressures in terms of higher inflation, deterioration in external balances, stretched balance sheets both in the corporate and banking sector etc. and more importantly brought to the fore the structural changes required to be made by the Indian economy to grow for the next decade and beyond.

Government initiatives to put in place a transparent process for allocation of real resources, deregulation of petroleum products, commitment towards fiscal rectitude, enactment of the bankruptcy code, and passage of the GST bill are good efforts to correct the structural challenges facing the economy. Government has been prudent to use the largesse from the fall in crude prices to enhance infrastructure spends. All economic booms typically result in overleveraged balance sheets in non-financial and/or financial sectors. This period is then followed by de-leveraging in the non-financial sector and consolidation and write-offs in the financial sector. Indian economy is currently witnessing all these trends and we have been almost 6 years since this phenomenon set in. Recent developments suggest that the government and RBI are making serious efforts to resolve the bad debt overhang problem in the economy. Further, this period has made both the financiers and entrepreneurs to be more circumspect, prudent in their future endeavors.

RBI's tight monetary stance over the few years, where the broad money supply (M3) has grown at ~12% CAGR between 2011-17 against a 20-year average of ~17% CAGR, has played a role in the moderation of inflationary pressures and resulted in better real returns for savers. We expect the inflationary pressures to remain moderate by better policy (both fiscal and monetary) and softer commodity prices. Formation of a monetary policy Committee (MPC) and an explicit parliamentary mandate of consumer inflation of 4% +/- 2% is likely to keep inflationary pressures under check.

Two large sectors (from a market capitalization perspective)—IT and Pharma have been facing headwinds in their businesses which are structural in nature. Some of the companies in these sectors with their strong cash flows and able management teams are likely to tide over these difficulties and emerge stronger from this phase and provide interesting opportunities for investors.

Mid-cap index has cumulatively outperformed the large-cap index by 67% and 52% over the past 3 and 5 years. Since availability of relevant data, there has been no period when there has been divergence of this magnitude between the performances of these two indices. It is quite likely that the large-cap indices perform better compared to their mid-cap peers over the next 1-2 years, given that the financial markets typically exhibit a mean reverting behavior.

Equity market valuations are close to their historical valuations and corporate profitability remaining below the historical levels. An important factor favoring the investors is that risk averseness is quite high among corporate, banking sectors and investor community given the experience of the past 8 years (since the great financial crisis of 2008). This significantly reduces the probability of permanent loss of capital, though there could be heightened gyrations in stock markets. Investors are advised to use the corrections to buy into equities and create wealth for themselves over the medium term.

We at LIC Mutual Fund have strengthened our equity fund management team over the past 4 years and introduced well-accepted practices of research, fund management. We remain committed to maintaining high standards of analytical rigor and investment discipline in managing our funds and delivering competitive returns for our investors.

Operations of the schemes:

As per Monthly Cumulative report (MCR) of March 2017 shared with SEBI, LIC Mutual Fund manages 42 schemes (21 open ended, 17 Close ended and 4 Interval Schemes), out of which 23 are Debt, 1 Liquid, 1 Gilt, 12 Equity (2 ELSS), 1 Balanced Scheme and 4 Exchange Traded Funds.

In pursuance of Para A titled "Treatment of Unclaimed Redemption and Dividend Amounts" of SEBI Circular no. SEBI/HO/IMD/DF2/CIR/P/2016/37 dated February 25, 2016, effective from 01st April 2016 we are maintaining a separate scheme for Unclaimed Redemption and Dividend amounts specifically for deploying the Unclaimed amounts.
